TP at a Glance

As a global company of nearly 500,000 people, it is essential that each of us embrace our company's purpose, values, and philosophy. Regardless of our location or language, we must consistently uphold and communicate these principles throughout our organization.

TP's Purpose

TP's purpose statement is to be a competitive advantage for each of our clients. We deliver outstanding experiences to all those we serve, and we are trusted by the world's leading companies. TP is efficient and empathetic. We are powered by emotional intelligence, enabled by AI. We are innovative, versatile, proactive, and resilient. Recognizing the importance of the role of our customer service teams, we have redefined its terminology to better suit their role. They are not agents; they are customer experts. Efficient, empathetic, and enabled by AI, they are dedicated to delighting customers and delivering outstanding experiences to all those we serve. From now on, let's officially refer to them as "customer experts."

TP Philosophy

This is a place where we believe in people, where cutting-edge technology supporting our people's empathy transforms millions of lives globally with unparalleled experiences, where teamwork wins.

This is a place where people work for people.

That's how we put commitment into practice.

This is the company that inspires to listen actively, to learn, to teach, to grow - to get things done. This is the company that motivates.

We are happy to make a difference.

This is the real thing - our client's business is our business.

Together, we build the best partnerships to perform. We have the knowledge and resources to deliver outstanding experiences anywhere in the world.

This is TP.

TP Values

Our core values remain steadfast, with two specific actions updated for the values of integrity and innovation. These actions highlight the personal commitment and attitude necessary to consistently embody these values, integrity, and innovation.

Cosmos / Integrity

I am transparent, ethical, and trustworthy.

Earth / Respect

I treat others with kindness and empathy.

Air / Innovation

I am curious to bring a positive change.

Metal / Professionalism

I do things right the very first time.

Fire / Commitment

I am passionate and engaged.

1. Introduction and Scope

1.1. Purpose of the Staff Handbook

This Staff Handbook sets out the principal internal rules, procedures, and employment-related practices applicable at TP Georgia. It is designed to support consistent communication, operational clarity, and fair treatment across the organization.

1.2.Scope and Applicability

This Staff Handbook applies to Employees of TP Georgia, unless a specific policy, local rule, or contractual arrangement provides otherwise. Employees are expected to read, understand, and comply with the rules and procedures set out in this Staff Handbook, as amended from time to time. The Company reserves the right to amend, supplement, replace, or cancel the policies and procedures set out in this Staff Handbook from time to time. Where a new policy has been issued but this Staff Handbook has not yet been formally updated, the new policy shall prevail.

1.3.Relationship with the Employment Agreement and Other Policies

This Staff Handbook should be read together with the Employment Agreement, relevant annexes, internal policies, operational procedures, and other Company rules. More specific policies or team-specific procedures may apply in addition to this Staff Handbook where required by the nature of the work, business line, or operational environment.

1.4.Interpretation and Order of Precedence

In the event of any discrepancy between the Georgian and English versions of this Staff Handbook, the English version shall prevail. In the event of any conflict between the provisions of this Staff Handbook and the terms of an Employment Agreement, the Staff Handbook shall prevail.

1.5.Definitions

For the purposes of this Staff Handbook, the terms “Company” and “Employer” mean TP Georgia, and the term “Employee” means any individual employed by the Company under an Employment Agreement, unless the context requires otherwise.

1.6.Internal Use and Confidentiality

The information contained in this Staff Handbook is intended for internal use only and must not be disclosed to persons outside the Company or to other organizations, except where disclosure is authorized or required.

2. Employment Basics

2.1.Employment Relationship

An individual becomes an Employee of the Company when he or she signs an Employment Agreement with the Company. The Employment Agreement sets out the job title, remuneration, and other principal terms of employment. The Employment Agreement is concluded on the basis of the Employee’s ability to meet the requirements of the role and to perform the assigned duties in accordance with Company standards.

The Company provides job roles and responsibilities to the Employee together with the Employment Agreement or its annexes. The Company also maintains a personal file for each Employee containing employment-related documents and records as required for internal administration and business purposes.

In the Company, Employees may be offered fixed term, full or part-time agreements, for their first year of employment with the Company. Further employment agreement extensions for the definite or indefinite terms are subject to management decision and the Employee consent.

Each Employee is requested to submit a criminal record certificate and in case of male candidates, military registration document of conscripts prior to starting the employment or on the first day at work. The Company reserves the right to conduct pre-employment background screening.

2.2.Termination

The Employment Agreement may be terminated on the following grounds:

- economic circumstances and/or technological or organizational changes requiring a reduction in workforce;
- expiry of the term of the Employment Agreement;
- completion of the work under an employment agreement;
- resignation or termination of the Employment Agreement at the Employee's will (to be exercised by submission of the Employee's written notice to the Employer at least thirty (30) calendar days prior to such resignation/termination);
- mutual agreement of the Employer and the Employee;
- incompatibility of the Employee's qualifications or professional skills with the position held or the work to be performed by the Employee;
- a gross violation by the Employee of obligations imposed under the Employment Agreement, a collective agreement and/or the Staff Handbook/internal labor regulations;
- a violation by the Employee of obligations imposed under the Employment Agreement, a collective agreement and/or the Staff Handbook/internal labour regulations, if any disciplinary measure envisaged by the Employment Agreement, a collective agreement and/or the Staff Handbook/internal labour regulations has already been applied to the Employee within the preceding 1 (one) year;
- long-term incapacity for work, if the period of incapacity exceeds 40 (forty) consecutive calendar days, or if the total period exceeds 60 (sixty) calendar days within 6 (six) months, provided that the Employee has used the leave under Article 31 of the Labour Code of Georgia;
- entry into legal force of a court judgment or other decision that excludes the possibility of performance of work;
- a court decision, adopted and entered into legal force in accordance with Article 67(3) of the Labour Code of Georgia, declaring a strike illegal;
- death of the Employer if the Employer is a natural person, or death of the Employee;

- commencement of liquidation proceedings of the Employer if the Employer is a legal entity;
- any other objective circumstance that justifies termination of the Employment Agreement.

2.2.1. Final Settlement and Return of Company Property

Upon termination of the Agreement, the Employee's last settlement shall be calculated and made as follows:

- where the Agreement is terminated at the Employer's initiative, payment for any unused annual paid leave accrued for the calendar year in which the Agreement is terminated, calculated at the Employee's base salary rate;
- deduction of salary for any annual leave days taken in excess of the employee's pro-rated entitlement for the relevant period of employment;
- the monthly performance bonus shall not be paid to an Employee who has failed to comply with the applicable notification rules;
- the monthly performance bonus shall be paid to an Employee who has complied with the applicable notification rules, in accordance with the relevant bonus payment guidelines, including, where applicable, for the previous performance month;
- recovery or reimbursement of any outstanding business expenses, as applicable;
- reimbursement for any damage to or loss of Company-provided equipment; and
- in the event of non-return of Company assets or return of such assets in a damaged or deteriorated condition, the Company shall have the right to deduct the full or partial value of such assets from the Employee's last salary payment to the extent permitted by the applicable laws of Georgia.

The Employee shall return, no later than the last working day or such other deadline specified by the Company, all Company property in the Employee's possession or control, including, as applicable, access badges, keys, equipment, laptops, headsets, documents, storage devices and any other materials or assets belonging to the Company. The Employee shall also return or permanently delete, as instructed by the Company, any confidential information or personal data of the Company, its clients or other Employees stored on personal devices, accounts or media, to the extent permitted by law.

The final salary payment shall be made on the regularly scheduled pay date, being the last working day of the month.

2.3. Communication Channels and Employee Acknowledgement

To ensure that Employees have access to major decisions and information affecting their employment, the Company communicates through official channels, including Outlook, BMS, Chime, Lark, Signify, private e-mail where appropriate, the Vabaco self-service portal, and other designated communication tools.

Employees are required to familiarize themselves with information, policy updates, and notices communicated through the above channels within 14 (fourteen) calendar days of receiving notice, unless a shorter period is specified in the relevant communication.

2.4. Employee Communication and Feedback

2.4.1. Regular Skip-Level Meetings

The Company regularly organizes skip-level meetings with Employees, hosted by the Human Resources Director and the VP Operations of the Company. These meetings are intended to support open communication, provide Employees with an additional channel for sharing feedback and concerns, and promote direct dialogue on workplace-related matters.

2.4.2. Employee Satisfaction

Each year, TP invites Employees from different countries to participate in an employee satisfaction survey. The survey provides Employees with an opportunity to express their views, share feedback, and contribute to the continuous improvement of the working environment and employee experience.

2.5. Onboarding

2.5.1. Purpose of Onboarding

The purpose of the onboarding process is to support the successful integration of each new Employee into the Company, ensure that the Employee is adequately informed about the role and workplace expectations, and provide the Employee with the knowledge, tools, and resources necessary for the proper performance of their duties. During the onboarding process, new hires shall also undergo mandatory trainings relevant to their specific business, as well as mandatory trainings available on the myTP platform.

2.5.2. Key Elements of Effective Onboarding

The key elements of an effective onboarding process include:

- clearly explaining the Employee's job responsibilities;
- clearly explaining the importance of the Employee's role within the Company;
- introducing the Employee to the Company's organizational vision and strategy;
- clearly explaining the Employee's performance objectives and expectations;
- introducing new Employees to their team members and other relevant Employees; and
- providing the Employee with the necessary tools, equipment, access rights, and other resources required for the performance of work.

2.5.3. Goals of Onboarding

A comprehensive onboarding process contributes to:

- stronger Employee engagement and a better understanding of the purpose and responsibilities of the role;
- the Employee's ability to make an effective contribution at an early stage of employment, including through the successful completion of initial assignments; and
- a significant reduction in the time required for the Employee's integration into the working environment.

2.5.4. Onboarding Timeline

The onboarding process begins before the Employee's formal start date, including through the provision of relevant contractual and role-related information during the recruitment and pre-employment stages, and continues during the first months of employment through training, induction, and familiarization with the rules, procedures, and operational requirements applicable to the Employee's role.

For expert new hires, the onboarding process also includes business-specific trainings, which may continue for a period of 1 (one) to 4 (four) weeks, depending on business needs.

2.5.5. Expert New Hires

For expert new hires, the onboarding process generally includes the following:

- receive an access badge for the office and be introduced to their working space;
- receive the necessary equipment and access to relevant tools, passwords, and user information;
- meet their team members and colleagues;
- meet the assigned Trainer, where applicable;
- receive an office tour and be introduced to basic workplace rules, including those relating to the kitchen, work and personal equipment, and common spaces;
- begin initial training, where applicable;
- have the opportunity to ask questions relevant to the role, the workplace, and the onboarding process;
- undergo job-specific mandatory trainings, including, without limitation Meet TP, TP Compliance Certification, specific trainings assigned by the immediate manager in the onboarding progress plan document, as such trainings may be updated from time to time;
- attend induction presentations and other introductory sessions, as applicable;
- continue training and nesting activities, noting that the duration of such period may vary depending on the team and business needs;
- become familiar with the applicable work schedule for the upcoming period; and
- become familiar with the Company's mission, vision, and values.

Onboarding is the process through which a new Employee is introduced to the Company and receives the information, tools, training, mentoring, and support necessary to perform the role effectively. The objective of onboarding is to facilitate integration into the Company, clarify expectations, and enable a productive and successful start to employment. During the first month, Employees are expected to complete their training and nesting period, become familiar with their work schedule, and gain an understanding of the Company's mission, vision, and values.

3. Rights and Obligations

3.1. Employer's Rights and Obligations

3.1.1. The Employer has the right to:

- issue a written notice to the Employee and grant the Employee a period for improvement in accordance with the applicable performance improvement process, if the Employee fails to properly perform the duties and responsibilities set out in the Agreement and Annex 1 thereto. If, following the performance improvement plan, the Employee fails to improve his/her performance to the required standard, the Employer shall have the right to terminate the Agreement by giving either 1 (one) month's prior written notice and payment of 1 (one) month's compensation, or 3 (three) days' prior written notice and payment of 2 (two) months' compensation;
- issue a written warning to the Employee and grant the Employee a period for improvement in accordance with the disciplinary procedure referred to in the Staff Handbook, if the Employee breaches his/her obligations and/or the rules set out in the Agreement and/or the Staff Handbook. If, following a written warning, the Employee fails to comply with the required disciplinary standards, the Employer shall have the right to terminate the Agreement without compensation;
- monitor work processes and business communications, in compliance with applicable legal requirements, for quality assurance, fulfilment of legal obligations, safeguarding of evidence, and handling of complaints. Such monitoring shall be carried out only by duly authorized persons. By signing the Agreement, the Employee confirms his/her consent to the recording of business conversations and, where permitted by law, to the listening to and recording of such conversations for the above purposes; and
- conduct screening of the Employee against applicable sanctions lists on a monthly basis, as part of the Employer's compliance processes applicable to all the Company employees.

3.1.2. The Employer shall:

- provide the Employee with information, documents and materials required to fulfil his / her duties;
- provide the Employee with working space and the technology necessary to fulfil his / her duties;
- create safe working conditions in accordance with the rules of labor protection and safety engineering according to the current laws of Georgia;
- inform the Employee in writing about any local regulations to be adopted which are directly related to his/her work;
- ensure the greatest possible protection of the personal data / information of an Employee and not to pass this on to third parties without the consent of the Employee, unless otherwise provided by the applicable laws. The consent to the use of personal data, Annex 3, forms the part of the employment agreement;
- pay to the Employee the remuneration and other allowances in the amount and in the manner determined in the employment agreement, in the internal regulations of the Company and in the applicable laws of Georgia.

3.2. Employee's Rights and Obligations

3.2.1. The Employee shall:

- be aware of and comply with the provisions of this Agreement, the relevant job description, the Staff Handbook, the Company's policies, rules of conduct, regulations, instructions, forms and other internal rules governing the Employee's work activity, as well as written or oral instructions of the Employer;

- comply with the information security, confidentiality, personal data protection, compliance and conflict of interest rules established by the Staff Handbook and the Company's policies and regulations, attend mandatory trainings required by the Employer, and not possess mobile phones on production floors, or any tablets or other devices capable of making voice and/or video recordings or calls;
- carry out his/her work carefully, conscientiously and efficiently, and use his/her professional experience, knowledge, skills and working capacity in the best interests of the Employer;
- upon an instruction of the Employer, carry out to the reasonable extent for the best interests of the Employer and in accordance with his/her qualifications the work of an absent employee as if his own;
- appear at the place of work on time, in a condition fit for work (as described in the Staff Handbook) and spend the working hours performing his/her responsibilities, or be at the Company's disposal for the purpose of performing work during this time;
- in case of absence from work for any reason, notify his/her immediate supervisor by telephone and send notification to tp-georgia@mj.teleperformance.com on the first day of absence, indicating the reason for the absence and its expected duration;
- where the Employee works remotely or from home, comply with all rules, restrictions and obligations applicable to such arrangement and act strictly within the scope of the authority granted by the Employer;
- not undertake any actions that may cause financial or other losses to the Employer or anyhow discredit the reputation of the Employer, its clients or its shareholders;
- take appropriate measures to protect the Employer's property/equipment from theft and damage and promptly inform the Employer or other appropriate representative of the Employer of any circumstances that could jeopardize human lives, safety and health or the property of Employer;
- protect the Employer's interests and adapt personal actions to the interests of the Employer;
- within the limits of the qualification requirements, carry out all orders, whether written or oral of the Employer including duties to be performed during off hours in compliance with current laws of Georgia;
- assume any liability related to, arising out of or in connection with, the Employee's non-performance of (or omission to perform) any action that may cause material harm to the Employer, or that may harm the reputation of the Employer in any form. The Employee is also materially liable for the property delegated to him/her by Employer;
- indemnify and hold the Employer harmless from all claims and all direct, indirect or consequential liabilities (including loss of profits, loss of business, depletion of goodwill and similar losses, as applicable), costs, proceedings, damages and expenses (including legal and other professional fees and expenses) awarded against the Employer, or incurred or paid by, the Employer as a result of or in connection with any claim made against the Employer in respect of any liability, loss, damage, injury, cost or expense sustained by the

Employer's guests, other employees, agents or third parties to the extent that such liability, loss, damage, injury, cost or expense was caused by, relates to or arises from the obligations of the Employee under this Agreement or as a consequence of a breach or negligent performance or failure in performance of this Agreement by the Employee;

- use the Employer's office space, Employer-provided communication and transportation services and any other property of the Employer solely in connection with the performance of the employment;
- not disclose the information regarding his/her or other employees' remuneration to third parties without the relevant consent from the Employer;
- inform the Employer about any circumstance that even temporarily hinders performance of the duties by him/her;
- inform the Employer regarding any changes in his personal data (education, place of residence, e-mail, address, telephone number) in person and in writing (e-mail acceptable) within 5 (five) days of such changes;
- comply with other obligations set out in the Staff Handbook.

3.2.2. The Employee shall have the right to:

- receive annual paid leave, unpaid leave and, where applicable, additional leave in accordance with this Agreement, the Staff Handbook and the applicable laws of Georgia;
- receive compensation for work performed on weekends and public holidays in accordance with the applicable laws of Georgia, the Staff Handbook and, where applicable, the relevant shift schedule;
- refuse to perform work, an assignment or an instruction that contravenes the applicable laws of Georgia or that, due to the absence of occupational safety standards, clearly and substantially endangers his/her life or health, the life or health of a third person, property or the safety of the natural environment, provided that the Employee shall immediately inform the Employer of the grounds for such refusal;
- receive maternity leave, parental leave, newborn adoption leave and additional parental leave in accordance with the Staff Handbook and applicable laws of Georgia;
- protect his/her labour rights and lawful interests by all means provided for under the applicable laws of Georgia;
- apply to a court and/or other relevant authority for the protection of his/her rights; and
- enjoy all other rights granted under the Labour Code of Georgia and other applicable laws of Georgia.

4. Workplace Standards and Conduct

4.1. Code of Conduct and Ethics

TP SE (including all its subsidiaries, "TP" or the "Group") adheres to the U.N. Global Compact, a United Nations initiative created to encourage companies to adopt a socially responsible attitude by committing to promote principles relating to human rights, international labor standards and anti-corruption, and to integrate those principles into their practices. It is a commitment that ensures that markets, business, technology and finance operate for the benefit of economies and societies worldwide. Employees are required to familiarize themselves with the Code of Conduct and Ethics and attend the relevant mandatory trainings.

TP has made a formal commitment to combat all forms of corruption within the Group.

In furtherance of that commitment, TP adopted this Code of Conduct and Ethics available at the following link: https://www.tp.com/media/mprpx0hw/code_of_conduct_and_ethics_2025.pdf

4.2. Equal Opportunity, Non-Discrimination and Harassment

The Company is committed to equal treatment and prohibits discrimination on any grounds at every stage of the employment relationship, including pre-contractual relations.

Discrimination means any intentional or negligent unequal treatment, exclusion, restriction or preference based on race, color, language, ethnic or social origin, nationality, origin, property or employment status, place of residence, age, gender, sexual orientation, disability, health status, religion, belief, political or other opinion, affiliation (including affiliation to a trade union), marital status, or any other legally protected characteristic or status, which has the purpose or effect of denying, impairing or violating equal opportunities or equal treatment in employment and occupation.

Direct discrimination occurs where, on any of the above grounds, a person is treated less favorably than another person in the same or a similar situation has been, is, or would be treated. Indirect discrimination occurs where neutral provision, criterion or practice places a person or group of persons at a particular disadvantage on any of the above grounds, unless such provision, criterion or practice is objectively justified by a legitimate aim and the means of achieving that aim are appropriate and necessary.

The Company ensures equal remuneration for female and male Employees for equal work performed.

Harassment, including sexual harassment, is strictly prohibited. Harassment means any unwanted conduct related to any of the above grounds which has the purpose or effect of violating a person's dignity and creating an intimidating, hostile, humiliating, degrading or offensive environment.

Sexual harassment means conduct of a sexual nature which has the purpose or effect of violating a person's dignity and creating an intimidating, hostile, humiliating, degrading or offensive environment. Conduct of a sexual nature may include verbal expressions or communications of a sexual nature, non-verbal conduct, physical conduct, the display of sexually explicit material, the exhibition of genitals, or any other unwanted sexually explicit behavior.

Any form of discrimination, harassment or sexual harassment may result in disciplinary action in accordance with the applicable internal rules and policies of the Company. Additional rules and procedures relating to prevention, reporting and handling of sexual harassment are set out in the TP Georgia Sexual Harassment Prevention Policy. These documents are available on the Vabaco portal, in the Documents section.

4.3. Confidentiality

During and after the end of the employment with the Company, the Employee is obliged to protect any confidential or private information (whether or not recorded in documentary form, or stored on any magnetic or optical disk or memory) not generally known to the public, relating to the business, operational and technical knowledge, matters, processes, products, affairs and finances and trade secrets of the Company or any of its clients, including, without limitation, technical data and know-how relating to the business of the Company or any of its clients or any of their business contacts (the “Confidential Information”) against unauthorized disclosure and use. The Employee declares and warrants that the Employee shall not, at any time during or after the termination of his employment with the Company make unauthorized disclosure of any Confidential Information or make any use thereof, except in the carrying out of his employment responsibilities.

Prior to any inspection, the Employee is obliged to hand over the property of the Company or of the Group companies as well as any proprietary or proprietary business documents, including all copies, electronic files and data carriers, to the Company at any time upon request of the Company; in case of the Employee exit, the obligation to release occurs at the beginning of the exit process. A right of retention is excluded.

In the case of a violation of confidentiality (including the disclosure of information about the identity of clients), privacy and personal data protection, the Employer is entitled to impose a penalty on the Employee amounting to 6 (six) months' worth of compensation.

4.4.Social Media Use

Confidentiality over the privacy of social media for non-disclosure of information on websites must be followed and shall be in compliance with the guidelines set out in this Staff Handbook applicable to all the messages and comments you make on all Social Media sites, including, but not limited to, weblogs or blogs, chat rooms, websites, Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn and Instagram.

The Employee shall not disclose personally identifiable information (PII), pertaining to the employees of any Client or Prospective Client.

The PII in question includes, but is not limited to, name, address, phone number, social security number, employee number, patent number, credit card number, income, health information, communication content or/and any other information related or identified or identifiable person.

In the case of social media publications, employees are required to be attentive and careful regarding privacy and financial issues questions.

Any kind of behavior that negatively affects the performance of any employee or that negatively affects TP or its Clients/Prospective Clients/ suppliers, may lead to disciplinary sanctions up to and including termination of the employment agreement, in accordance with applicable laws.

The Employees must maintain confidential TP’s confidential information as it is defined in Employment Agreement, this Handbook and/or on the relevant policy.

The Employees must maintain confidential the confidentiality of trade secrets and of private or confidential information of TP. Trade secrets may include information that are related to the development or existence of systems, processes, products, know-how or technology related to TP and its customers. The Employees should not send internal reports, policies, procedures, or other confidential communications related to their internal activities.

The Employees should not mention the name of any Client or Prospective Client of TP and other identifying information regarding Clients or Prospective Clients in any kind of publication on social media. Logo and other elements related to TP customers cannot be used on personal pages of social media.

TP’s logo and its articles cannot be used on personal pages on Social Media.

The Employees cannot use social media during working hours on equipment provided by TP, except cases for work purposes after obtaining prior authorization from their supervisor and in compliance with approved criteria for using TP tools. These documents are available on the Vabaco portal, in the Documents section.

4.5.Dress Code

Although the dress code in the Company is generally casual, the Employees are expected to dress in a manner appropriate to the work environment and to maintain a professional business image at all times. The Employees attending formal internal or external meetings are expected to comply with a Business or Business Casual dress code, as appropriate.

The minimum dress code requirements are as follows:

- a) all clothing must be appropriate for a professional working environment. Clothing that is excessively revealing or otherwise inappropriate is not permitted;
- b) all clothing must be clean and in good condition;
- c) the Employees must not wear clothing containing offensive, inappropriate, or disturbing wording and/or images; and
- d) repeated violations of the dress code may result in disciplinary action.

4.6.Business Travel

Where required by business needs, Employees may be required to undertake business travel within Georgia or abroad. In such cases, both the Company and the Employee shall comply with the applicable internal rules, travel arrangements, approvals, and expense procedures in force at the relevant time.

4.7.Smoking, Alcohol and Substance Abuse

Smoking is prohibited on Company premises except in areas specifically designated for that purpose. The use, possession, distribution, or sale of alcohol or illegal substances, as well as being under the influence of such substances, including, without limitation, drugs or alcohol, while on duty or on Company premises, is strictly prohibited.

In accordance with applicable local rules, the Company may require alcohol testing where there is reasonable suspicion that an Employee is under the influence of alcohol while at work. Reasonable suspicion may arise from observable conduct, behavior, physical signs, or other circumstances that objectively justify concern.

A positive test result, refusal to undergo testing, or an attempt to evade testing may lead to disciplinary action, up to and including termination. The sale or attempted sale of prohibited substances is also prohibited.

4.8.Parking Facilities

Employees in certain management positions may be provided with an individual parking key. The list of positions eligible for individual parking access is maintained by site management. Employees must use parking access responsibly and in accordance with the rules applicable to Company premises.

5. Working Time and Attendance

5.1. Working Schedules

The Company may offer full-time or part-time employment, with a minimum of 20 (twenty) and maximum of 40 (forty) hours per week, depending on the requirements and circumstances of the relevant business and/or department. Contractual working hours are set out in the Employment Agreement or in an annex thereto. Working hours may be changed by agreement between the Employee and the Company, taking into account operational circumstances. Any change to the working schedule must be agreed in writing at least 1 (one) month in advance, unless a different arrangement is expressly agreed.

Working time per week must not exceed 60 hours, including overtime. Employees are entitled to at least 1 (one) day off in each seven-day period. Where overtime is anticipated, the Company should ensure timely advance communication of the operational need for such overtime.

5.2. Breaks and Rest Periods

Employees are entitled to 12 (twelve) hours of rest time between working days or shifts. Where the duration of a working day equals or exceeds 6 (six) hours, the Employee is entitled to a one-hour break. Break time is not included in the calculation of total working time.

5.3. Attendance Recording and Timekeeping

The working day begins once the Employee is fully ready to start work. Employees are therefore expected to be fully ready to start performing their duties at the official shift start time, in line with the Staff Handbook. Employees should manage their arrival and preparation time accordingly, so that ordinary steps such as finding a workstation, turning on the computer, logging into systems, and opening the required work tools do not delay the start of work. If an employee arrives at the workplace at or after the shift start time and then needs additional time to access the working environment, this will be treated as delayed readiness for work and not as a technical issue, unless there is an actual system, equipment, or access malfunction outside the employee's control. For clarity, the Company does not require employees to perform work before the official shift start time unless this is specifically instructed or approved in accordance with applicable procedures. . All Employees are required to check in and out for work and for breaks using the designated attendance tool. Times recorded in the tool are used for payroll and attendance records at the end of the month.

More detailed information regarding shift order, working hours, break times, and team-specific timekeeping rules may be provided in the relevant annex to the Employment Agreement for a specific business or function.

5.4. Night Work and Special Categories of Employees

Employees with special needs and Employees who have a child under 3 (three) years of age may be scheduled for night shift work only with their written consent.

Employees who are breastfeeding infants under 12 (twelve) months of age and whose agreed working hours are 30 (thirty) hours or more per week are entitled to work 1 (one) hour less per working day while continuing to receive the contractually agreed salary. Upon the Employee's written request and subject to approval by the Company, this additional break time may be taken immediately before or after the regular break, or at the beginning or end of the working day.

A pregnant Employee shall be granted additional time for a medical examination upon request if the examination must be performed during working time. Upon submission of documents confirming the examination, the absence due to the examination shall be treated as excused and remunerated. For such time to be treated as excusable, the pregnant Employee shall notify the immediate supervisor 1 (one) week before the examination, complete the relevant form on the Employee Self Service Portal, and upload the clinic confirmation within 7 (seven) calendar days after the procedure. The clinic document must indicate only the date, time, and duration of the consultation.

5.5. Work on Public Holidays

Depending on the scheduled shift, Employees may be required to work on public holidays. Work performed on public holidays, being the dates stipulated in the Labor Code of Georgia, shall be compensated either at 150% of the applicable hourly rate or by time off in lieu.

Employees in management and administration are exempt from the above rule and may claim only time off in lieu, unless otherwise approved by the Company. The applicable method of compensation shall be communicated to the Employee at least 10 (ten) days prior to the relevant public holiday.

If the rest day of an Employee working in shifts is scheduled on a weekday (Monday through Friday) and falls on a public holiday, the Employee shall be granted additional time off within 1 (one) year from such rest day. This rule shall not apply where the rest day of a shift Employee is scheduled on a weekend (Saturday or Sunday) and falls on a public holiday.

Where additional public holidays are announced by the Government of Georgia, the applicable compensation approach shall be communicated by the Company separately, where relevant.

6. Leave and Absence Management

6.1. Annual Paid Leave

6.1.1. Entitlement and Accrual

Employees are eligible for 24 (twenty-four) working days of paid annual leave during each calendar year. For the first employment year, paid leave is accrued on a prorated basis according to the number of months worked. As a general rule, the Employee accrues 2 (two) vacation days for each calendar month if the start date falls between the 1st and 15th day of the month, and 1 (one) vacation day if the start date falls on or after the 16th day of the month. For example, if the Employee starts working on 10th of August, he/she will receive 10 (ten) paid leave days for the rest of the calendar year. When the Employee starts working on 16th of August, he/she receives 9 (nine) paid leave days for the rest of the calendar year.

6.1.2. Annual Paid Leave Application and Planning

Applications for annual leave must be initiated by the Employee in advance through the Employee Self-Service Portal (Vabaco ESS). When submitting a leave request, the Employee must take into account a reasonable notice period. As a general rule, where the requested period of annual leave exceeds 3 (three) working days, the Employee should submit the request at least 1 (one) month in advance.

At the beginning of each calendar year, each Employee shall indicate the planned annual leave and the period during which he/she intends to use such leave. By the end of February of the relevant calendar year, each Employee must have planned at least 75% of his/her annual paid leave entitlement for that year. If an Employee fails to do so, the Employer reserves the right to propose approximate dates for the Employee's annual paid leave.

Annual paid leave shall be granted considering operational needs and the order in which leave applications are submitted. The Employer has the right to determine the order in which annual paid leave is granted during the year in accordance with the Labor Code of Georgia.

6.1.3. Process for Applying for and Taking Annual Leave

The process for applying for and taking annual leave shall be as follows:

- a) the Employee shall first agree the intended leave dates with his/her line manager. Subject to availability and operational needs, the leave request shall be aligned with the line manager (Supervisor, Manager or Assistant Manager as applicable. The approved leave days shall be reflected in the scheduling tool of the respective business;
- b) once the leave dates have been approved, the Employee shall submit the leave application through the Company's Employee Self-Service Tool (ESS). The application shall appear in the inbox of the Employee's line manager in ESS, and the line manager shall review and approve or decline the application accordingly;
- c) any changes to annual leave days that have already been submitted and approved may be made only through the relevant HR team representative; and
- d) any approved change to annual leave shall also be reflected in the scheduling tool of the respective business by the relevant Team Manager.

6.1.4. Carry-Over / Transfer of Annual Leave

The Employees are encouraged to use their annual paid leave within the applicable leave year in order to ensure adequate rest, recovery, and work-life balance. In exceptional cases, where granting annual paid leave within the applicable leave year could negatively affect the normal operation of work processes, and with the employee's prior consent, up to 10 (ten) unused paid leave days may be carried over to the following calendar year.

Any such carried-over leave days must be used no later than 31 March of the consecutive year. Any carried-over leave days not used by this deadline - March 31st, expire and may not be carried forward any further.

The Company reserves the right to monitor leave balances and to communicate with employees to ensure that leave is taken regularly and within the legally permitted timeframe.

6.2.Unpaid Leave

Employees are eligible for 15 (fifteen) calendar days of unpaid leave during each calendar year, subject to approval by the immediate line manager and the applicable internal process.

Unpaid leave requests where the period of absence is longer than 15 (fifteen) days should be submitted and approved by immediate supervisor and/or business operations representative 1 (one) month in advance of the leave period. Unpaid leave days, which were not taken until the end of the calendar year, expire at the end of 31.12 of the calendar year. Health insurance coverage will be discontinued for unpaid leave longer than 30 (thirty) days.

The Company reserves the right to decline the leave request for certain periods, if operational circumstances do not allow the absence of the Employee and is obliged to suggest other mutually suitable dates. Unpaid leave may be used only after the Employee has exhausted his/her accrued annual paid leave days.

6.3.Sick Leave

Employees are entitled to temporary incapacity benefit / paid sick leave, subject to the submission of a valid medical certificate (bulletin). A medical certificate must be issued by an authorized medical institution. For information regarding clinics covered under the applicable insurance policy, Employees may contact the health insurance provider directly.

In order for sick leave to be treated as paid sick leave, the following procedure shall apply:

- a) the Employee must promptly notify his/her respective line manager or the on-duty team manager by telephone as soon as the Employee feels unwell. In addition, the Employee must submit a sick leave request through the Employee Self-Service Portal, indicating the anticipated duration of the absence;
- b) a valid medical certificate (bulletin) must be obtained from the first day of absence and uploaded to the Employee Self-Service Portal by attaching a copy/photo of the bulletin to the sick leave request;
- c) the closed medical certificate must be submitted within the time period established by the applicable laws of Georgia, calculated from the date of closure of the certificate. If the certificate is not submitted by the time payroll for the relevant month is processed, the relevant days of absence shall remain unpaid. If the certificate is subsequently submitted within the legally permitted period, the relevant adjustment shall be reflected in the payroll of the month in which the certificate is received;
- d) where sickness-related absence exceeds 15 (fifteen) calendar days, the Employer reserves the right to withhold any bonus payment applicable for that period;
- e) where sickness-related absence exceeds 30 (thirty) calendar days, salary payment for the relevant month shall be processed only upon submission of the completed medical certificate (bulletin). Any exception to this rule shall require approval from site management; and
- f) where sickness-related absence exceeds 5 (five) days, the Employee may be requested to provide evidence that the sick leave has been opened.

Failure to comply with the above procedure may affect the treatment and payment of sick leave.

Under the Labour Code of Georgia, temporary incapacity for work constitutes a ground for suspension of the employment relationship only if it does not exceed 40 (forty) consecutive calendar days or 60 (sixty) calendar days within a 6-month period. Accordingly, where the Employee's temporary incapacity exceeds the above statutory thresholds, the Employer may notify the Employee that the statutory ground for suspension due to temporary incapacity has been exhausted.

In such case, if the Employee remains unable to return to work, the Employee may be requested to submit a request and supporting documentation for another applicable legal ground for continued absence/suspension, including paid annual leave and/or unpaid leave, as applicable. In the absence of work performance or another valid legal or contractual ground for paid absence/suspension, the Employer may treat the relevant continued absence as non-remunerated, without prejudice to the Employer's right to assess further steps in accordance with the Labour Code of Georgia, the Employment Agreement and the Employer's internal regulations.

6.4. Maternity Leave

6.4.1. Entitlement and Accrual

Maternity leave pay is available to eligible Employees, excluding Employees who are in a probationary period.

To qualify for maternity leave, the Employee must submit an official medical bulletin issued by the relevant hospital or healthcare provider confirming the pregnancy and the expected due date. Employees are encouraged to provide this information as early as possible to facilitate a smooth transition and to enable the Company to make the necessary arrangements during the Employee's absence.

6.4.2. Process for Applying for and Maternity Leave Pay

The following rules shall apply to maternity leave and maternity leave pay:

- a) the pregnant Employee must notify her direct supervisor of the planned maternity leave at least 1 (one) month before the intended commencement date of such leave;
- b) the maximum duration of paid maternity leave is 275 (two hundred seventy-five) calendar days. This period includes maternity leave taken before and after the birth of the child;
- c) maternity leave pay for the first 6 (six) months (183 calendar days) shall be calculated based on the average salary paid to the Employee during the last 6 (six) months, plus the average monthly bonus paid during the last 6 (six) months;
- d) compensation for the following 3 (three) months (92 calendar days) shall be paid in the amount of 50% of the amount referred to in paragraph (c) above;
- e) the annual bonus paid in December shall be calculated based on the amount of salary actually paid to the Employee during the relevant year.

An Employee who gives birth to another child while already on maternity leave shall not be entitled to a new or additional maternity leave payment from the Company in respect of such subsequent childbirth and may instead apply for the financial support provided by the state in accordance with applicable law.

Employees who are in a probationary period are not entitled to maternity leave pay from the Company. In such case, the Employee may still be entitled to receive the relevant payment under state assistance, subject to the applicable rules. A pregnant Employee employed under a fixed-term Employment Agreement shall be entitled to take maternity leave only until the expiry of the relevant Employment Agreement.

6.4.3. Return from Maternity Leave

The Employee shall inform the Employer minimum 1 (one) month before her planned return and communicate the possible date, subject to the mandatory training schedule. The employee has the right to return to the same or similar position, under the same employment agreement.

The Employer is entitled to offer an alternative job requiring the same qualifications and with the same salary, but only if not possible to offer the same job. In this case, the Employer may offer alternative employment under a new employment agreement.

6.5.Paternity Leave

6.5.1. Entitlement and Accrual

An employed father has the right to take paid paternity leave for a period of 10 (ten) working days according to the relevant internal rules, provided that he has successfully completed the probationary period. The Employee shall notify the immediate supervisor at least 1 (one) month before the intended paternity leave and provide the child's birth certificate to Human Resources. If the Employee has already used 2 (two) working days granted in connection with the birth of a child, those days will be deducted from the total paternity leave entitlement.

If the father's right of paternity leave is not used within 730 (seven hundred thirty) days after the birth of the child, the benefit will be annulled. In case of birth of twins, the amount of paternity leave days of the father remains the same and the father's leave is paid in accordance with the rule of paid leave.

6.5.2. General Conditions of Parental Leave

If both parents are employees of the Company, both of them can take maternity/paternity leave in accordance with the rules specified in the Staff Handbook. If the mother refuses her right to use the paid days for pregnancy/maternity, she can transfer mentioned days to the father. The father will be able to use available days in accordance with the rule for the terms of the maternity leave in the Staff Handbook.

Unpaid leave for childcare is given to one of the parents in accordance with the terms and conditions set out by the Labor Code of Georgia and during this period, the employment relationship with the Company remains intact. However, the Company is not obliged to make any payment to the Employee on unpaid childcare leave.

6.6.Family Support Allowance and Special Leave

The Company recognizes that family events are very important in the Employee's life and may provide support in the form of additional time off for the relevant event, as set out below. The special leave must follow the normal leave application procedure, which implies agreement and approval by immediate line manager. To apply for the special leave, the Employee must provide Human Resources with a copy of wedding/death certificates. Special leave as set out in this Section must be used within 6 (six) months from the relevant event. Any monetary family support allowance is governed by Section 7.9 of this Staff Handbook.

Occasion	Time Off
Employee's marriage	2 days
Death in the family (spouse, children, parents-in-law, grandparents; spouse grandparents)	2 days

6.7.Return from Extended Leave

Employees returning from a leave of absence longer than 1 (one) month may be required to contribute the same duration in their role before being considered for progression or changes to their Employment Agreement, in accordance with the relevant internal rules. The same principle applies where the Employee has resigned from a senior position and returns to the Company within 3 (three) months after resignation. For returnees after 3 (three) months, the start date of the new employment agreement will count as starting point to calculate the time in bands.

6.8.Vacation Entitlement upon Termination

Upon termination of the Employment Agreement, the Employee will be reimbursed for unused leave days in accordance with the following calculation rules: 2 (two) days per month, if the exit date is on or after the 17th of a month (i.e.17.-31.). If the exit date is before the 17th of the month, 1 (one) day will be compensated. Leave used in excess of accrued entitlement may be subject to adjustment in the final payroll settlement.

7. Compensation and Benefits

7.1.Base Salary and Payroll Timing

The base salary of each Employee is defined in the Employment Agreement. Salary is paid monthly, on the last working day of the month, by bank transfer to the Employee's designated account.

In exceptional cases upon the management decision, the salary payday may change to an earlier day. The payment for overtime, night hours, time worked during public holidays as well as monthly performance bonus will be processed, 1 (one) month later in the month following the performance month.

7.2.Compensation Principles

The Company's compensation system is based on the principles of external competitiveness and internal consistency. When establishing and maintaining compensation structures, the Company takes into account business needs, market conditions, employee performance, salary bands, and internal fairness considerations.

The Company has a salary matrix for contact center / content moderation employees, which is approved via the Company management and contains salaries and bonus percentages for each relevant role, and is confidential.

7.3.Salary Review Process

General salary review may take place annually and is intended to assess the Company's competitiveness against the market as well as general economic factors affecting compensation. Any salary review is subject to Company discretion, budget availability, business performance, and the applicable internal process.

7.4.Promotion and Progression

Promotion or progression to a higher-level position may result from successful placement of the Employee following a selection process, or from the Employee's skill set, tenure, performance, and experience in a role that meets the minimum requirements for the next level. For Contact Center / Content Moderation positions in operations and quality (junior/senior), progression may also be applied automatically upon satisfaction of the applicable role and tenure requirements. Promotion or progression may also result from the achievement of defined time-in-role criteria where such framework exists for specific operations and quality positions. Recommendations for promotion should be supported by the relevant line manager and approved through the applicable internal approval process.

Position	Affiliations Period
Customer Expert I	1 st – 6 th months
Customer Expert II	6 plus months
Specialized Services Supervisor/Quality Assurance Analyst I/Trainer I	1 st – 6 th months
Customer Service Supervisor-Trust and Safety Supervisor/Quality Assurance Analyst II/Trainer II	6 plus months

Line Managers who would like to recommend the Employee for promotion, should acquire approval for position change / creation to a greater level and consult TP Georgia leadership team on the placement process.

7.5.Night Work Compensation

Employees who are required to work at night, between 10 PM and 6 AM, receive an increased hourly rate. The hourly rate for nighttime work is increased by 50%.

7.6.Monthly Performance Bonus

The Employees in roles indicated in the below table may receive a monthly performance bonus in addition to base salary where predefined qualitative and quantitative objectives are achieved and are processed in the relevant month. The relevant immediate supervisor is responsible for informing the Employee about achievement or non-achievement of the applicable goals. This bonus is voluntary, without recognition of a legal obligation for future and does not create guaranteed or vested right.

Position	Bonus Percentage Max	Affiliation
Customer Expert I	10%	1 st – 6 th months
Customer Expert II	20%	6 plus months
Customer Service Representative Lead	15%	From 1 st month

Specialized Services Supervisor/Quality Assurance Analyst I/Trainer I	10%	1 st – 6 th months
Customer Service Supervisor-Trust and Safety Supervisor/Quality Assurance Analyst II/Trainer II	20%	6 plus months

Qualitative and quantitative key performance indicators (KPIs) may vary from one business to another and shall be communicated to Employees by the relevant Business Management teams.

Any disciplinary sanction or documented disciplinary violation shall serve as a disqualifier for the performance bonus or any other business-specific bonus for the relevant performance month.

Bonus payment shall be made in the month following the relevant performance month, together with the base salary payment on the scheduled pay day.

A disciplinary sanction may affect the Employee's entitlement to a performance bonus, annual bonus, or any other bonus payable under the specific bonus scheme applicable to the relevant business.

7.7. Annual Bonus

Employees are eligible for an annual bonus where they have completed at least 6 (six) months of employment as of 1 December. As a general rule, the annual bonus is paid at the rate of 50% of one gross monthly salary and is processed in December. The basis for calculating the annual bonus is the average monthly salary rate for the given calendar year.

Employees leaving the Company in December as a result of resignation and who have complied with the applicable notice rules remain eligible for the annual bonus. Employees who are terminated, or who resign without observing the applicable notice requirements, are not eligible for the annual bonus. The Company reserves the right to withhold the annual bonus for a given year in case of a documented disciplinary violation by the Employee. Annual bonus eligibility for new joiners applies only where the Employee joined no later than 1 June.

7.8. Overtime and Other Bonus-Related Conditions

Overtime hours are those worked in excess of the weekly working hours agreed in the Employment Agreement and are introduced to address exceptional circumstances driven by operational needs. Overtime work is generally not mandatory and, except as otherwise required under the Labor Code of Georgia, is performed only by agreement between the Company and the Employee. Overtime hours as a general rule are compensated with time off for the same duration. There may be instances where compensation with time off is not possible due to operational requirements and monetary compensation is suggested at a rate increased by 50%. To be compensated, overtime hours should be requested and approved by immediate supervisor.

7.9. Family Support Allowance

The Company acknowledges that Marriage and Childbirth are very important events in the Employee's life and provides support by payment of gross for each occasion. Any related special leave is governed by Section 6.6 of this Staff Handbook.

Occasion	Allowance
Employee's marriage	GEL 650 Gross
Birth of Employee's Child	GEL 650 Gross

In case of birth of twins, the allowance will be doubled. To apply for the allowance, the Employee must provide representative of Human Resource department with a copy of birth/wedding certificate. The payment will be included in the next salary payment.

7.10. Annual Leave and Sick Leave Pay

For the purposes of calculating annual leave pay and paid sick leave pay under this Staff Handbook, the Employee's remuneration shall consist of the base salary and the monthly performance bonus. Annual leave pay shall be determined based on the average remuneration (base salary and monthly performance bonus) paid to the Employee during the 3 (three) months preceding the leave. If the period worked by the Employee, since the commencement of employment or since the last annual leave is less than 3 (three) months, annual leave pay shall be determined based on the average remuneration (base salary and monthly performance bonus) for the months worked. If the Employee receives a fixed monthly remuneration, annual leave pay shall be determined based on the remuneration of the last month. Paid sick leave shall be calculated on the same basis.

7.11. General Rules

The details and conditions for the payment of different types of bonuses within the Company are governed by the relevant policy documents.

7.12. Benefits

7.12.1. Health and Protection

The Company values the health of its Employees and their family members at all times. The Company offices are equipped with modern working tools in accordance with the ergonomic standards, regular inspections of office health and safety requirements are also conducted in all the Company offices.

Recent pandemic response proved that the Company took the lead and ensured safety of workspace by providing adequate measures taken in the premises and also changing processes to enable the Employees to work from home.

The Employees are offered medical insurance plan, which covers medical expenses incurred during employment with the Company.

The Employees' family members covered under this medical insurance plan are the Employee's spouse and children based on the conditions stipulated in the agreement with the health insurance provider.

In order to prevent accidents at work, including accidents on the way to/from work, they must be reported immediately to the Human Resources Team.

The Employees who apply for family insurance should register their dependents within 1 (one) month from the start of insurance term.

7.12.2. Transportation

The Employees working in shifts after 10PM until 6AM are provided with paid transportation to/from their home location, travelling in groups in same direction/neighboring districts.

7.12.3. Training and Development

Training forms an important part of employment experience in the Company. It is an on-going process, which is mutually beneficial for the Employees and the Company. Service center employees start their employment with the Company by attending intensive classroom-based trainings and continue to get training and learning support throughout career with the Company. Introduction trainings are scheduled for 40 (forty) hours per week, even if agreed contractual hours are less, therefore contractual hours during training should be set to 40 (forty).

7.12.4. Career Development Program "Jump"

The "Jump" program is designed to develop employees and prepare them for internal promotions, enhancing their chances of success in the selection process for higher-level positions. Its goal is to build a talent pool for recruitment while identifying and strengthening Employee's knowledge and skills to support their career growth at TP.

7.12.5. MyTP Saba

The Employees have access to the global knowledge and resources platform MyTP Saba, where they can access both mandatory trainings and professional educational online classes.

7.12.6. Engagement Program

Our Engagement Program is specially designed to meet the support needs of our people while promoting a work environment driven by our values: Creativity, Excellence and Respect. The program is tailored to meet local needs and guarantees you will #FeelGood at any TP location around the world.

8. Performance, Conduct and Consequences

8.1. Performance Improvement Policy

The purpose of this policy is to ensure consistent and equitable treatment of Employees who are experiencing difficulties in satisfactorily performing the duties required of their position. The Company will assist and encourage all Employees to achieve and maintain high standards of job performance, thereby delivering a high-quality customer experience.

The Performance Improvement Policy is designed to address cases where a TP Georgia Employee lacks certain knowledge, skills, or abilities and is unable to perform all or a significant portion of their assigned duties to an acceptable standard. In cases where performance issues remain unresolved at the end of the performance improvement process, the HR Representative and the Employee's Line Manager may determine the appropriate next steps. This procedure applies to all employees of TP Georgia.

This procedure does not apply to unsatisfactory performance resulting from negligence, willful lack of application, or willful disregard of performance standards, as well as frequent, persistent, and short-term absences, which will be addressed under the Disciplinary Policy.

8.2.Disciplinary Procedure

The Company expects all Employees to maintain satisfactory standards of behavior, conduct, and attendance. The disciplinary procedure provides a framework for dealing with instances of misconduct, rule violations, and other issues requiring corrective action. The goal is to ensure prompt, consistent, and fair treatment for all employees while clearly defining expectations for both the Employee and the Company.

If an Employee fails to adhere to Company rules, the Employee may receive a warning, either verbally or in writing, regarding the misconduct. Depending on the nature, severity, and circumstances of misconduct or offence, the Employer may impose one of the following disciplinary sanctions:

- a) verbal warning or written feedback;
- b) first-level written warning;
- c) second-level written warning;
- d) demotion to a lower-level position; or
- e) termination of the Employment Agreement.

At its discretion, the Company may apply one of the above sanctions in response to a single occurrence of misconduct. Depending on the gravity of the violation, the Employer has the right to decide whether to issue a first-level or a second-level warning.

A warning is a serious sanction and may affect the Employee's performance-related pay, annual bonus, or other bonus arrangement. Serious or repeated violations, or conduct following a first-level warning, may result in a second-level warning or termination.

At the Company, the disciplinary procedure is further regulated by the Disciplinary Policy. The main principles of the policy are:

- a) supervisors and managers are responsible for addressing conduct/behavior issues as early as possible and for taking appropriate action. Where appropriate, steps will be taken to resolve issues on an informal basis without recourse to the formal procedure.
- b) the Employee against whom an allegation has been made shall be advised in writing of the nature of the allegations and will be given the opportunity to state his/her case (explanation letter) before any decision is made to take disciplinary action.
- c) at any stage in the procedure, if appropriate, the Employee may be temporarily deprived of access rights to the work premises. This is not a penalty and is not an indication of culpability; therefore, there is a presumption that suspension will be on full pay, except in exceptional cases. The decision to suspend will be taken by an authorized management team representative after consultation with HR.

- d) all parties involved in these procedures must ensure that they maintain the confidentiality of the process within and outside TP Georgia.
- e) while every effort will be made to comply with timescales, due to the complexity or specific circumstances of cases, timescales may be extended. In such circumstances, an Employee will be advised of the reasons for any delay.

Termination as a sanction must be preceded by one of the above-mentioned disciplinary sanctions, except in cases where the misconduct qualifies as gross misconduct.

Disciplinary sanctions are applied in writing and kept in the Employee's personal record/file.

8.3.Gross Violation

Gross violation includes, but is not limited to, the following conduct:

- Serious misuse of authority to take actions in personal interest, gain, or advantage that negatively impacts the Company and/or its employees.
- Proven theft, appropriation, destruction, or attempted appropriation/destruction of property owned by the Employer, its employees, or a contractor, and located within the Employer's premises, including direct or indirect participation in such acts.
- Falsification of documents, including illegal transactions and fraudulent expense reports.
- Fraud.
- Bribery.
- Causing substantial and specific danger to health and safety.
- Covering up gross wrongdoing.
- Grossly illegal, or unethical misconduct.
- Breaching confidentiality conditions.
- Submission of false information in order to be hired or further promoted to a position.
- Gross abuse and/or insult directed at the Employer's other employees, the Employer's management, the director and/or a partner, or a third party related to the Employer.
- Committing a significant administrative offense or crime.
- Undisciplined behavior, fighting, and/or violence of any kind.
- Carrying or using cold weapons or firearms inside the Employer's territory.
- Serious bullying or harassment.
- Violence or aggressive behavior against other employees of the Employer.
- Obscene or indecent behavior, sexual misconduct, or the circulation of offensive material.
- Serious breach of security policies, standards, or procedures, including financial procedures.
- Misuse of alcohol or illegal drugs.
- Being in possession of illegal drugs.
- Severe breach of health, safety, and hygiene rules or acting in a manner dangerous to others.
- Behavior bringing the Employer into serious disrepute.
- Serious insubordination.
- Willful refusal to perform duties or willful disregard of performance standards.
- Gross negligence that causes unacceptable loss, damage, or injury.
- Engaging in serious, disruptive, abusive, threatening, or unethical conflict with other employees of the Company.
- Engagement in any form of discrimination or harassment against a colleague.

- When the Employee has stopped attending work without authorization and a reasonable explanation.
- Violation of information security and data protection rules established by company policies and regulations;
- Repeated or severe violation of working hour obligations, including failure to adhere to the assigned work schedule (such as late arrival or early departure without prior authorization), absence from the workplace during working hours without notice or approval, and failure to accurately record work hours through the designated system or intentional manipulation of the time-tracking process.
- Violation of system log-in/log-out procedures, which the Employees are introduced to during onboarding and/or relevant trainings, including failure to log in or log out in accordance with the Company policy, failure to ensure complete and accurate system-based work-hour records, or non-compliance with security protocols related to system access.
- Sharing system access credentials, including username and/or password, with another employee or any third party, including providing access to one's assigned system profile, allowing another individual to perform actions under one's credentials, or failing to report incidents or suspicions of misuse that may compromise data security and confidentiality.
- Possession of mobile phones on production floors, as well as any tablets or any other device capable of making voice and/or video recordings or calls.

9. Internal Mobility

9.1. Internal Job Applications and Transfers

Employees who wish to apply for a role within the Company must meet the position requirements and notify their immediate supervisor in writing of their intention to apply. If selected for the role, the Employee, HR representative, immediate/current line manager, and new line manager will agree on the schedule and duration of the transition process.

In certain cases, internal recruitment may be restricted during peak season or other operational periods that do not allow personnel movement between businesses or departments. In such cases, information about existing restrictions will be communicated to Employees.

9.2. Internal Transfer Policy

The Internal Transfer Policy sets out the process and rules for transfers from one business unit to another within the Company. The Company recognizes that staff motivation, productivity, and retention are enhanced when Employees work in roles suited to their interests and capabilities. Therefore, the Company offers and encourages transfer opportunities for current employees.

Line Managers should be supportive of staff members who have the desire to enhance their skills or develop competencies to pursue different or greater responsibilities internally.

As a general rule, an Employee must have been in the current position for at least 6 (six) months and must have successfully completed probation in order to be eligible to apply for a transfer. At the same time, the Company management may, at its discretion, initiate the transfer of Employees between departments or businesses to support sustainable workforce allocation. In all cases, the Employee's work record, including performance, attendance, skills development, and conduct, will be used as a valid criteria for determining suitability for the position. Exceptions are reviewed individually and require approval by the Company leadership team.

9.3.Referral Policy

The Referral Policy provides a framework to ensure that the referral process offers a consistently positive experience for our Employees. The objectives of the Referral Policy are to:

- a) facilitate an increase in referral hires throughout the organization;
- b) create the best working environment for our colleagues while offering opportunities to bring the right skills into the teams and recruit potential peers;
- c) ensure that the payout of referral bonuses is based on Annex 1 of the Policy document;
- d) provide support in terms of process and exclusions from the policy.

9.3.1. Referral Procedure

Referral procedure is as follows:

- a) employees review available vacancies as communicated through local HR job boards and company career websites.
- b) employees may share available vacancies with potential candidates in their network and establish their interest in being considered for an available opportunity at TP.
- c) the Employee must register on the Softgarden Referral Manager via the provided link to make a recommendation: Referral Manager Web Address: <https://referral.softgarden.io/en/majorel-georgia/sign-up>
- d) after registering, every Employee will have the opportunity to see the vacancies for which they can receive a referral bonus. Employees can refer candidates by sharing the job link via email or different social media channels (e.g., WhatsApp, Facebook, LinkedIn, etc.).
- e) the recruiter will notify the referred eligible candidate to initiate the recruitment process. (Please note that at this step, there will be no progress updates provided to the referring Employee due to the confidential nature of the recruitment process.)
- f) a referred candidate is not prioritized for hiring over other candidates.
- g) if the referred candidate is successfully hired, the name of the referee will be registered for payroll purposes.

9.3.2. Referral Bonus Payout

As a general rule, 50% of the referral bonus is paid during the first month of the new hire's employment, provided the new hire has successfully completed and graduated from training. The remaining 50% is paid after the referred candidate has completed the probationary period of 6 (six) months. Any changes to referral bonus conditions will be reflected in the relevant annex or policy document.

9.4.National Relocation

The National Relocation Policy establishes the framework applicable to the Company Employees and candidates in order to ensure that permanent relocation within Georgia is managed in a consistent manner, provides a positive experience, and complies with applicable local requirements.

National relocation applies to individuals who relocate for a minimum period of 12 (twelve) months in order to take up employment with the Company. This includes both Georgian nationals and non-nationals who are currently residing in Georgia but not in a city where TP Georgia has an operational site.

National relocation shall apply only where the relocation is made for employment purposes with the Company. Candidates who relocated for other reasons or in connection with previous employment are not eligible under this policy. National relocation further applies only where the individual is relocating from a city located more than 60 (sixty) kilometers from the host city.

The Company does not provide for a return to the previous location, unless special conditions apply and such return has been approved by senior management.

The Disciplinary, Performance Improvement, Recruitment and Selection, Transfer, Referral, and National Relocation policies and guiding principles may be obtained from an HR team representative, the immediate line manager, or downloaded from Vabaco SSP.

10. Reporting and Ethics

10.1. Global Ethics Hotline

The Company is committed to maintain the highest standards of ethical, honest, and legal business conduct.

TP's five core values, which drive our corporate culture, are Respect, Innovation, Professionalism, Commitment, and Integrity. Our commitment to act with integrity means acting and complying with the highest professional and ethical standards and the laws that govern TP, our operations and our industry. TP and its subsidiaries are committed to the highest standards of ethical, honest, and legal business conduct.

The Global Ethics Hotline is intended to provide a mechanism for the reporting of suspected wrongful business conduct (as described below), while protecting the reporting individuals from retaliation or other adverse employment actions. We are all custodians of TP's reputation and culture, and we all have a responsibility to keep our business strong by demonstrating the highest standards of integrity in behavior. We owe this to our clients, our partners, our shareholders, and ourselves.

Many thanks for your unfailing commitment to upholding the values of TP and promoting them both inside and outside the Group. To follow up on TP and its subsidiary Global Ethics Hotline, please follow this link: <https://tp.integrityline.com>

10.2. Reporting Channels

In addition to the Global Ethics Hotline, Employees may use the Company's formal communication and reporting channels, including Human Resources, management, and other designated reporting routes, to raise concerns relating to conduct, ethics, compliance, or workplace issues. The Company expects all parties to act in good faith and maintain appropriate confidentiality when raising or handling reports.

11. Final Provisions

11.1. Amendments to the Handbook

The Company may amend, supplement, replace, or cancel this Staff Handbook or any part of it from time to time. Updated rules may be communicated separately before this document is formally reissued, and such updated rules shall apply from the date communicated by the Company.

11.2. Availability of Related Policies

Related policies, procedures, forms, annexes, and business-specific instructions may be made available through official Company systems, Human Resources, management channels, or other internal communication tools designated by the Company.

11.3. Employee Responsibility to Familiarize Themselves with Updates

Employees are responsible for reviewing applicable updates, following the current version of internal rules, and seeking clarification where necessary. Failure to familiarize oneself with communicated policies and procedures does not excuse non-compliance.
